Sometimes you just cannot deal with the real object and need to use a Proxy for it.

The real subject may have problems such as unwieldy size, remote location, needing access protection, or smart pointer.

The Client cannot tell if the Proxy is a RealSubject or forwarding requests to one.